2021 will be a year of change – a year of global uncertainty and a year in which companies, large and small, will adapt, will change and will develop.

Mönch Publishing Group is no exception: there are changes already under way across the Group’s magazines and digital channels that will continue through 2021 as we modify, refine and enhance our offerings.

Many of these changes are being driven by feedback from our global readership: we asked, you responded – we listened. Now, we are acting.

The most immediately visible change will be in frequency of the magazines as we marshal resources to ensure we continue to offer valuable, essential information and insight to our discerning international audience.

MILITARY TECHNOLOGY: six ‘core issues’ and a minimum of three ‘special issues’

NAVAL FORCES: five ‘core’ and two ‘special’ issues

TECNOLOGIA MILITAR: two ‘core’ issues

WEHRTECHNIK: four ‘core’ and six ‘special’ issues

The other major difference will be in the number and style of the articles appearing in each issue, with greater attention being paid to what you told us you wanted. Articles that are, on the whole, shorter and more focused; articles that offer observation, insight and analysis, rather than catalogues of equipment; articles that promote discussion, debate and even controversy; opinions and thought leadership from a wide variety of contributors. All this will continue to be backed – and complemented – by digital services that continue to develop and that will offer a linked, topical and timely adjunct to the modernised print magazines via our online news service and social media channels.

We will continue to work hard to provide you with the highest editorial quality, the broadest array of subject matter and a much wider spread of opinion: guest editorials, more interviews, insightful essays on topics of vital importance.

All this change is inspired by you, our loyal and continually growing readership. You told us what you want: we listened and are working hard to deliver, because we know that in the complex, changing world of defence and aerospace – knowing is half the battle.

1. “Advertising Order” as used herein shall mean any order for the publication of one or more Client(s) advertisement(s) in a publication for purposes of circulation.

2. Advertising orders shall be executed within one year after conclusion of the contract.

   Should the right to recall individual advertisements be extended to the Client, the order shall be executed within one year of the appearance of the first advertisement, as long as the first advertisements shall have appeared in accordance with paragraph 1. The Client shall be entitled to recall further advertisements within the specifically agreed deadlines mentioned in Sections 1 and 2.

3. The Publisher shall be entitled to decline advertisements and orders for insertion even after the conclusion of the contract, by reason of their content, on the grounds of origin or technical form in accordance with the uniformly applicable basic regulations of the publisher, if such content conflicts with the law, with legal provisions, or with common moral standards, or if the Publisher deems their publication unreasonable. This shall also apply to inserts and supplement contracts. They may also be declined if they would tend, through their format or layout, to create in the reader the impression that they form an integral part of the magazine or journal.

4. The placing of advertisements, supplements and client-supplied inserts in specific issues, editions or page locations is in no way guaranteed.

5. Advertising orders are binding, if they are given in person, by telephone, in writing, by fax or E-mail.

   The client is responsible for the quality of advertising material submitted for publication. The information contained in the publishing company’s confirmation of order is the information the publishing company uses to carry out the order. The Client shall be responsible for the timely delivery of the advertising text and of satisfactory print materials and inserts. Should execution of the advertising order not be possible because these materials were available too late or incompletely, the Client shall bear the full costs of the advertisement.

   Printing material faults which are not recognisable immediately and which are noticeable on publication of the advertisement only, cannot form the basis of any claim on part of the client should the supplied proof be insufficient.

6. In cases where an advertisement has been erroneously printed the Client shall have the right to claim a reduction in payment. In the case of errors which grossly detract from the purpose of the advertisement(s) the Client shall have the right to claim publication of a satisfactory replacement advertisement.

   No further claim on the part of the Client shall be admitted.

7. The Client shall bear all charges for preparation of proposals presented in the order, for printing plates and artwork as well as for subsequent alterations thereto.

8. The period for safekeeping of the printing material shall be three months after the execution of the order.

9. No claim under the warranty of compensation for damages shall be admitted that has not been made within four weeks after publication of the advertisement through a written notification of errors.

10. Should performance of the order be impossible owing to circumstances not attributable to the publisher, the Client shall compensate the publisher for all costs (typesetting and the like) arising therefrom.

   Should the advertisement governed by the order be published in part only to circumstances not attributable to the Publisher, the Client shall be charged only a corresponding fraction.

   Discounts allowed shall be adjusted to the value of advertisements actually appearing.

   Claims for compensation of damages by the Client for advertisements which for whatever reason have not been published or have not been published in good time shall not be admitted.

11. It is agreed that such compensation shall apply as is set forth in the relevant schedule of fees issued by the Publisher.

   For calculation of advertisement space sold, text millimetres shall be converted into advertisement millimetres to obtain price.

   Should specific size of advertisement not be agreed upon, the advertisement shall be invoiced on the basis of the size actually published.

   Compensation shall be payable within the collection period stipulated in the Schedule of Fees.

   We need to include reference to prepayment conditions e.g.: Any organisation placing a first advertising order, or an order placed after a period of 36 months during which no order has been placed, shall be considered a “new” client and will be required to pay in advance the full agreed cost of the advertisement before publication of the advertisement.

   When payment is delayed, past-due interest at the rate of 4% over the prevailing European Central Bank discount rate shall be assessed. A fee of 10.00 shall be charged for each letter for demand of payment. Where payment is delayed the Publisher shall be able to defer the further execution of current orders until payment is made without thereby cancelling the entire order.

12. Place of performance and judicial venue shall be the city of Bad Neuenahr-Ahrweiler.

13. In accordance with §§ 26 and 34 of the Bundesdatenschutzgesetz of 1.1.1978 we herewith give notice that we shall be employing electronic data processing for administration and invoicing of the contract. For this purpose we or a third party shall be storing personally applicable data insofar as it is of significance for the performance of the contract.

15. Any oral agreements not in keeping with the conditions for delivery and payment must be confirmed in writing.

16. If the client's billing address differs from his mailing address, the client must inform the publishing company accordingly and provide the appropriate address.

17. If one of the above conditions violates any law or regulation, the validity of none of the other conditions is affected.

   In such a case, the void condition should be interpreted in a manner that permits the achievement of the aim the void condition was intended to achieve.

Additional Business Terms:

Force majeure, strikes, plant disruptions etc. releases the publishing house of all obligations.

The client and not the publishing house holds responsibility in view of claims by third parties should the published ad be against the law, in particular law concerning competition and licence infringement. The publishing house cannot be held liable should a small number of “loose” supplements not be distributed with the main journal. In the case of orders by phone, the publishing house can be held liable for errors only should these be due to gross neglect or deliberate action. Placement instructions are valued only if confirmed by the publishing house to the client.

You Told Us What You Wanted ... We Listened ... and We’re Changing

In keeping with our motto that Knowing is Half the Battle, all the changes taking place in MilTech in 2021 are geared towards providing the readership with accurate, timely and relevant information, presented in a fashion that makes decision-making easier, research more efficient, and – perhaps – stimulates enhanced thinking and discussion.

The most obvious change is the length of articles: you told us you wanted shorter, more easily assimilated articles, so the new norm is one, two and three-page articles: no more lengthy ‘catalogues’ of equipment or products. Instead, the articles will be oriented towards observation, analysis and comment – something else on your wishlist.

In order to take advantage of obvious synergies, each of the ‘core’ issues of MilTech this year will have a theme – Land Warfare, Homeland Security, etc. The first group of articles in each issue will address different aspects of this theme – taking advantage of the great breadth of experience in our international editorial contributors. But – importantly – the theme will not dominate the entire edition! The second half of each magazine will carry features, interviews, comment and analysis of the full range of tri-service issues affecting the interests of our wide and varied international readership.

And that leads to the other critically important point. In this media pack you will see a number of feature articles listed for each edition. This is only half the content of the magazine! Each issue will also carry a wide range of ‘Departments’, columns and commentaries aimed at providing you with what you have asked for. Those additional features will include:

Comment: In addition to the Editorial, there are five comment columns in each issue: two from selected contributors, a ‘Letter from America’ and a ‘Letter from Brussels’ from our dedicated correspondents and the ‘Rear Echelon’ column on the back page. In addition, we expect to announce in MilTech 1/2021 the start of a regular Guest Editorial column – bringing global thinking and thought leadership from some of the leading lights in our community.

Departments: In addition to the C4ISR Forum (which will be growing) and the From the Bridge naval column, every issue will contain a Technology: the Final Frontier column, a Homeland Security Forum and an Industrial Focus section. More ‘departments’ are under consideration which, space permitting, will appear through the year.

Interviews: In response to the demand for more interviews, we have a wide-ranging programme developing for 2021. The popular 3-2-1 Interview column will continue, and will be accompanied by one and two page interviews with organisations and individuals of topical interest – ranging from serving officers in military and public security agencies to senior industrialists and respected academics. Many of these interviews will be supported by additional material appearing on Mönch Online News (MON) at www.monch.com

News and Analysis: In a rapidly-moving and dynamic environment like the defence and security community, a competent publisher needs to be attentive to current developments, open to multiple points of view and flexible enough to be able to react quickly. Our news sections will do just that – and will again be supported by and linked to MON where appropriate. Why? Because knowing is half the battle – and you deserve our very best!
